Union, IGC Resume Talks

THE ROBINS came to town and proclaimed it first, but this blooming peach tree is really heralding spring coming early this year. Elm trees are leafing out and buds on other flowering trees and shrubs are swelling in answer to spring-like weather in February.

Alcoa Removes Gate Across Freezeout Road

Negotiations between striking workers and Industrial Generating Co. of Rockdale resumed Friday morning and continued Friday afternoon, according to a statement from IGC Manager Richard Wiggins' office.

This was the first meeting between IGC and IBEW Local 2078 since talks broke off in a stalemate Feb. 11. The strike started Jan. 29.

Other developments include a temporary restraining order issued by Judge Jack Roberts in federal district court in Austin, calling for IBEW to relocate pickets from FM 1786 and FM 2116 to near IGC gates.

Alcoa had filed a secondary boycott charge against IBEW, claiming the pickets were interfering with contract workers getting to their jobs at Alcoa and IGC modernization projects. The charge was filed with the National Labor Relations Board which investigated and took the matter to the federal district court.

Joe Caldwell, IBEW Local 2078 business agent, said that the union is complying by moving its pickets to a gate by the power plant and to another gate near the fuel department shop. Meanwhile, he said, the union is asking Alcoa to close other plant entrances.

FREEZEOUT GATE

Alcoa's controversial gate over Freezeout Road west of the plant site is gone.

A company spokesman said that the gate had served its purpose and was taken down. The gate was placed there to provide a special plant entrance to get contract workers to their jobs without crossing picket lines.

Landowners in the area protested about the gate to county commissioners who declared the road a public, county-maintained road.

Two Alcoa employees drew disciplinary leave without pay, one for crashing through the gate and another who chose to open the gate himself and drive through. Both employees have filed grievances concerning the suspensions.

Braggart Keeps His Word

CALDWELL

An 18-year-old burglary suspect who bragged about escaping from the Burleson County jail, kept his promise but only to be recaptured hours later in Houston. The suspect broke out of the small window of his jail cell door and squeezed through the outside hall. He used a resident's car to escape but was picked up in Houston several hours later.

TB Tests Show Reactors

ROSEBUD

A case of active tuberculosis in Rosebud prompted the State Health Department to administer skin patch tests to a total of 306 persons before the supply of serum ran out. Results of the tests showed some 36 were judged to be reactors. Chest X-rays were given to those reactors and more serum was applied for more tests.

Exemption Would Be Costly

LAMPASAS

Lampasas school officials feel a 10 percent increase in school taxes will be inevitable if a $3,000 tax exemption for persons 65 or over is approved by school district voters. Board said that approval of the exemption would cost the school district about $40,000 and would call for increased taxation to cover the cost.

Comeback For Wild Turkeys

SOMERVILLE

Texas Parks and Wildlife personnel released 20 wild turkeys at a site just east of Somerville in the bottomlands of the Yegua Creek. According to biologists, wild turkeys were rather common in the area untill 1920 when civilization started encroaching upon the birds' environment.

Speed Cited In Accident

HEARNE

Ralph S. (Bob) Bailey, 56, of Bryan was instantly killed last Friday morning when the Continental he was driving veered just off the road to the right and struck a concrete pillar at the underpass eight miles south of Hearne on Highway 6. No skid marks were in evidence and investigating highway patrolmen said that speed was a definite factor in the accident.

McGREGOR

An Application for rehearing is being prepared by McGregor attorneys following the 6-3 decision last week against this city's right to annex its own airport. In reversing and rendering "Waco vs. McGregor," the Supreme Court overruled a jury verdict and judgement from the 74th District Court and an opinion out of the 10th Court of Civil Appeals.

Airport System Conference To Include Milam

A Texas Airport System joint planning conference will be held in the ASAP Building, 302 E. Central Avenue, Belton, at 10 a.m., Tuesday, March 4, 1975.

Airport development needs of Bell, Coryell, and Milam Counties will be discussed.

Participating in the meeting will be representatives of the Central Texas Council of Governments, city and county elected officials, airport board members, airport managers, and other citizens.

All area citizens with an interest in air transportation and airport development are invited to attend.

Benefits of air transportation to a community are not always well understood. General aviation airports will be examined in relation to community and county development goals.

The Texas Airport System Plan is being developed for Texas and the Federal Aviation Administration by the Texas Aeronautics Commission. Technical assistance is provided by the Texas Transportation Institute of Texas A&M University.

Major activities of the Plan include inventory of existing aviation facilities, forecasting of aviation demand, comparison of present capacity with forecast needs, evaluation of alternative airport systems, developing schedules of required improvements, and identification of alternatives for financing system growth.

Milano Board Sets Election For 2 Trustees

The Milano School Board has approved April 5 as the date for the election of two trustees.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Milano School Library. Mrs. Willie Mae Haddox will serve as election judge, Mrs. Marie Taylor and Mrs. Jessie Mae Wimberly, election clerks.

Absenteee ballots may be cast from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday between March 17 and April 1 at the school administrative office in Milano. Mrs. Eugenia Vinton will be absentee clerk.

Filing deadline is March 6. Melvin E. Graham and J. C. Hayman of Milano, whose terms will expire, have filed for re-election.

New Quarter System Will Affect Schools

The new quarter system for the 1975-76 school year will be adopted officially by the Cameron School board in the near future, according to Supt. Buddy Dulin, as the system is now mandatory according to state law.

The adoption will mean not too many changes to students, except in the high school, but will mean an overhaul of the administration's paperwork and records.

The main difference to students will be in the reporting system. Instead of two semesters, the school year will be divided into three 60 day units. Report cards will be issued every six weeks instead of every nine weeks as it is now.

Changes in some scheduling will be necessary in high school, but the new law will not affect junior high and elementary scheduling, Dulin said.

For instance, health classes are given for half a year in high school. Under the new system, it will be offered for two quarters, and the remaining quarter will present a scheduling problem.

Dulin said the new system will offer more opportunities in some high school courses, but a school of Cameron's size would have too limited personnel to offer as many subjects as some of the larger schools are doing.

Deadline Told For Credit Exams At Temple College

The registration deadline for credit by examination tests at Temple Junior College is this week, Thursday, Feb. 27, Anice Naler, Director of Counseling and Testing, said.

TJC offers examinations in college credit in more than fifty courses. The college credit examination date is March 15, but students must register by the Feb. 27 deadline in order to be able to take the tests, Mrs. Naler said.

Students may earn a maximum of 15 semester hours through the credit by examination procedure. Students who belive they are qualified by experience or previous training may take the special examinations which, depending upon the course, may be subject area examinations of the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) or TJC's institutional examinations, he said.

Students may not attempt credit by examination for any course in which they have been enrolled previoustly, she said. The tests in any subject area may only be taken once and the student must score a grade of "A" or "B" on the test to receive course credit, Mrs. Naler said.

Hearne Bank Employees Plead Guilty In Court

Three of six bank employees allegedly involved in an embezzlement and misapplications of funds scheme at the First State Bank of Hearne pleaded guilty Thursday in U. S. District Court in Austin.

Three other employees of the Hearne bank also were indicted on the charges. Two of the bank officers have not been arraigned and the other pleaded innocent last month.

Two bank secretaries, Mrs. Gloria Ann Holden, 30, and Mrs. Dorothy Lockhart, 28, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charges of misapplication of funds, less than $100.

Thomas B. Mayfield, 34, a bank director, pleaded guilty to embezzlement and misapplication of funds totaling $10,276.

Mayfield, the U. S. attorney said, had written checks totaling more than $150,000 which were paid by the bank, but never run through his checking account.

When bank examiners arrived at the bank, the attorney said, the checks were found in a desk drawer in the bank. Mayfield has made restitution of the money, the attorney said.

The three will be sentenced March 9 in Waco.

Toward The 116th....

The Cameron Herald is approaching its 116th year. The first number of the new volume will be in two weeks.

It is a rational newspaper and an independent newspaper. Politicians and dogmatists are uneasy with these characteristics, but most people of this day find their own thinking less anchored than ever before.

Polls show 43 percent of the population consider themselves independents. Here in Central Texas, loyalties are to Democrats in numbers, Republicans in minority, independents in greater numbers every year, particularly in national elections.

This newspaper continually re-evaluates the condition of leadership at each level, regardless of party, re-evaluates economics, education, and other basics affecting all of us. We re-evaluate ahead of confirmation by majority. We are inclined to avoid bandwagons and bandwagoners are slow to climb to our support until a few "I told you so's" fall on them.

Proof is in the continuity of almost 116 years and irrefutable redevelopment of one of Texas' oldest county seats during the past decade.

Perhaps we look at Cameron and Milam County and surrounding area much like the Greeks and Renaisance Italians looked at their city states. They were isolated, advanced in development, well run, cultured and aggressive even to conquering one another with local armies.

Rural counties and small towns and cities, highly organized, are manageable where even medium sized cities face major problems.

These editorials are not to dominate, but to persuade and cause readers to think. That's why we say this is a rational newspaper.

The decision is yours in a free country. But it is ours to encourage you to choose a better course in a complex day.

Thanks for reading us toward the 116th year.

What Others Say...

Third-Party Talk....

The talk of a new third party in American politics serves a number of interests, not necessarily including the public's.

By favoring a third party, speakers at the recent Conservative Political Action Conference registered the extent of their disappointment with what they regard as Gerald Ford's lapse from the true faith since leaving Congress.

By questioning the need for a third party, conservative Ronald Reagan indicated he is still available should the Republicans want him in 1976. And anyone with as much a foot in the door as he has would be reckless to abandon even a troubled major party for the long, long shot of a third party.

Not that third parties are not an acceptable option in American politics. The present Republican Party itself grew out of a minor party. And third parties have initiated and fostered changes affecting major parties and the nation--women's suffrage, for example, and the convention system of nominations.

But even a former president like Theodore Roosevelt could not win when he ran again on a third-party (Progressive) ticket. The chances for a third-party victory look no better at this stage. So the significance of any such other third-party functions as providing a safety valve for those alienated by both major parties; a "spoiler" role for undercutting one of the parties; or a means of nudging one or both parties in directions favored by the third party.

The latter alternative could be constructive in encouraging a debate over issues as the campaign develops. But in terms of public sentiment, the likeliest third party might not be conservative. A recent Harris survey shows both conservatives and liberals declining, while moderates grew from 31 percent to a 43 percent plurality between 1968 and 1974 (though George Gallup found conservative sentiment at a peak last year and advised changing the name of the GOP to the Conservative Party.)

That moderate 43 percent might be said to constitute a "third party" within the customary orbits of the major parties. Both Democrats and Republicans need to take account of it.

But as the political cards are shuffled and reshuffled up to November, 1976, the irony is that the outcome of the game will mightily depend on what happens away from the table--namely in the economy.

"IN THE HOLE AGAIN" AVALON-FEATURES

Greek Communist Exiles May Soon Return Home

Reuter -- Thousands of Greek communists exiled after the Greek civil war ended 26 years ago may soon get the chance to return home. But some are not sure they want to go.

The problems are mostly human and practical, as the exiles contemplate uprooting families solidly established in towns and villages throughout eastern Europe.

Large Greek colonies in Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, and Czechoslovakia include many who were born there, as well as others, who married local citizens and raised families which have almost no longing for Greece.

Nevertheless, there has been a strong interest among exile communities since the new Greek democratic government of Prime Minister Constatine Karamanlis announced readiness last month to consider repatriation requests.

The Greeks form the largest single refugee group in eastern Europe, but their numbers are difficult to gauge accurately. Greek officials say there are between 60,000 and 80,000 living in communist countries, including 14,000 in the Soviet Union.

Greek officials say all refugees in Russia want to return to Greece, preferably all together. For many, this may be because of enforced residence in remote Soviet central Asia, around the Uzbek city of Tashkent.

The exiles are the last of 100,000 communists activists--some still facing criminal charges in Greece--who fled to neighboring Yugoslavia and Bulgaria during and after the 1946-49 civil war, which almost led to communist rule in Greece. The revolt was crushed only with strong U. S. support for the Royalist government.

Many refugees were stranded in Yugoslavia when President Tito defied Soviet leader Joseph Stalin and broke away from the Soviet bloc. Although generally loyal to Moscow, large numbers of them moved to other communist countries.

The largest single community is still in Yugoslavia. Belgrade sources say the total may be 50,000 but other estimates suggest this is exaggerated.

Most of those remaining in Yugoslav Macedonia, close to the Greek border, are now yYugoslav citizens and have virtually no contact with Greece. "After all, they were considered outlaws and rebles," a Greek official in Belgrade says.

In Czechoslovakia, the estimated 13,000 Greek exiles were caught in the reformist revolt led by Alexander Dubcek in 1968. The Greeks mostly supported the reformers and found themselves in official disfavor when Dubcek was ousted.

Now, they are divided into two groups, one supporting the pro-Moscow Greek communist party, the other backing the "inferior" communist party of Greece, which follows an independent policy.

The "inferior Greeks" claim the biggest support in the community but are not recognized by Czechoslovak authorities. Both groups are cautiously interested in repatriation.

Scientists Study Brain Extracts

LONDON Reuter--Can a mouse be taught new tricks--just by an injection?

Yes, say American researchers who claim mice can "borrow" the memory of other mice by an injection of chemicals distilled from crushed mouse-brain.

Some British scientists greeted the claims with suspicion but it is the kind of research that may one day lead to "instant learning" pills.

The breakthrough in understanding the complex process by which the brain unscrambles messages and stores information is described in a recent edition of the New Scientist magazine.

The work, by C. J. Radcliffe and J. W. Shelton of Baylor University Medical School, Houston, is likely to renew debate on a subject that has sinister implications, but might ultimately help the mentally retarded.

They found that mice injected with extracts from the brains of mice trained in running a maze learned to run the maze faster than "untreated" mice.

They took one batch of mice and taught them to locate a cup of water in a maze quickly by depriving them of water. The creatures were then killed and extracts prepared from their brains.

This "brain juice" was then injected into a second batch, which ran the maze in 280 seconds on average. A third batch of control mice took 560 seconds to run the course.

The experiment was based on a theory--disputed by some--that the brain acquires information by chemical changes in its nerve cells. These changes occur naturally when we learn in, say, the classroom.

But the theory is that they can be induced artifically if the chemicals in which the learning is "encoded" can be isolated and implanted. This may be what the Baylor scientists have done by trial and error with the brain extracts.

One British scientist who asked that his name not be used was skeptical of the claims. "I'm suspicious. It's such an attractive idea that everyone tries to do it.

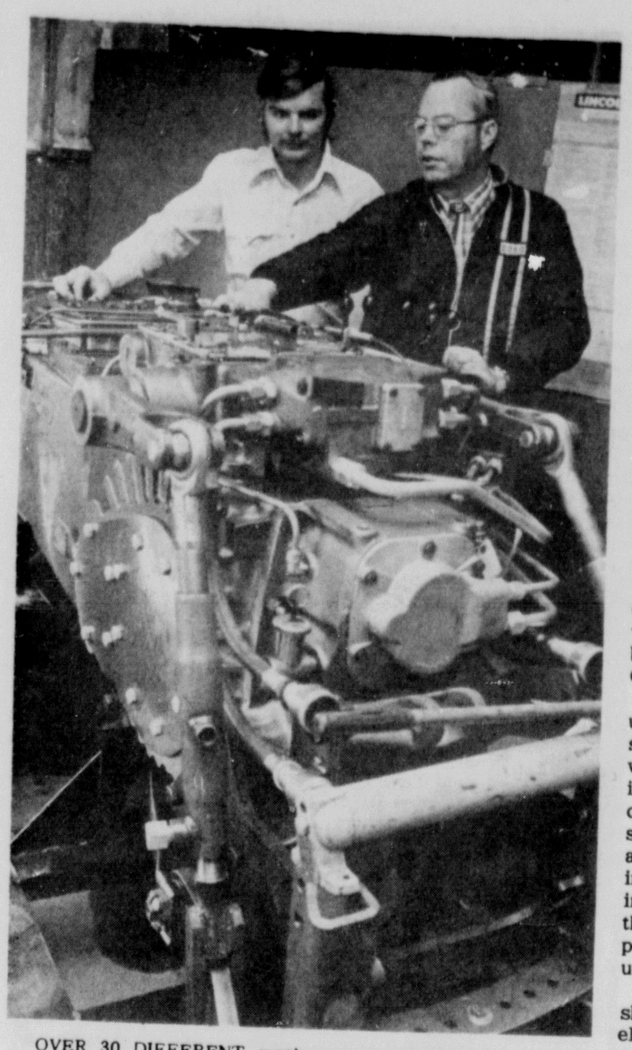
"If you have enough attempts, you're bound to get a few successes. But it doesn't mean anything."

The question remained the "major unsolved problem in biology," he added.

Previous claims have been greeted with criticism. Four years ago Dr. George Ungar, also at Baylor College of Medicine, said he had isolated a similar chemical.

The chemical, called scotophobin, was taken from the brains of rodents which had been taught to reverse their normal reaction and avoid the dark when injected into rats, they, too, became scared of the dark.

He said at the time he hoped to start experimenting with monkeys. He saw applications ultimately in teaching retarded children to do simple tasks, such as going to the toilet.



OVER 30 DIFFERENT mock-ups of agricultural equipment will be used in the Case Mfg. Co. workshop being held at State Tech. Here State Tech students Robert Lalla listens as Case representative L. E. Wiles explains the working of a tractor mock-up.

Workshop Held On TSTI Campus

Over 150 area service men with the J. I. Case Manufacturing Company are taking part in an update workshop held on the Texas State Technical Institute Campus.

The training period will last for two weeks. Students in agricultural and farm equipment technologys are participating in the workshops also.

The service school covers Texas, New Mexico, South Oklahoma, and Western Louisiana. The school is traveling to the different areas while new facilities are being built at the home office of Case in Racine, Wisconsin.

Manager of Service Education at Case L. E. Wiles said the reason State Tech was chosen was because of its central location. "Of course we like to see the students because there is a dire need for mechanics in this field. The traveling is working out so well that we may make it a permanent part of our setu," said Wiles.

Areas covered in the workshop will be ag-hydrolics, electrical, clutches, transmissions, power shift transmissins, utility hydrolics, and construction. There are 30 different mock-ups of various types of equipment with over 100 components.

The workshop will train over 2,000 men by June 1975. The next stop for the traveling school is Alexandria, Minnesota.

PARIS

France has become one of the world's leading missile traders with a breakthrough sale to the United States Army and a deal to equip the British Navy. Selling missiles to the United States may sound life selling refrigerators to Eskimos, but a France-German arms concern has signed a contract to supply the American army with 20,000 Roland missles over the next decade.

MOSCOW

If Soviet school authorities thought they could get away with giving boys a fashionable new school uniform while leaving the girls with their dowdy brown dresses, they miscalculated. Girls from 7 to 17 are up in arms, demanding equal fashion rights with the boys--who from the beginning of the next school year are to have trendy dark blue uniforms in the latest styles.

PEKING

For 800 million Chinese, a quarter of mankind, the next new moon ushers in the Year of the Hare--and a planned new year leap in China's industrial production. It ends the Year of the Tiger, marked by savage denunciations of two dead men--former Defense Minister Lin Piao and Confucius. the ancient philosopher.

MANAGUA

An upsurge of guerrilla activity in Nicaragua has failed to shake the power of President Anastasio Somoza. Nor has it distrubed the wealthy Somoza family which has ruled the Central American republic for the past 38 years. The kidnapping of two cabinet ministers last December is likely to lead only to new security measures to protect the governing elite.

GUATEMALA CITY

Like many other developing countries, the Central American republic of Guatamala is suffering heavily from world oil prices, but a political struggle is delaying chances of developing its own potential oilfields. The fight centers on the terms of an oil exploration law approved by the government last October, which let the government take roughly 70 percent of output in the form of taxes.

LONDON

Barbara Cartland, the romantic novelist whose books have sold millions of copies around the world, has published her 150th novel about a virgin heroine. The British writer has another 20 books awaiting publication. But she says it is becoming increasingly difficult to devise new ways to keep her heroines out of bed for some 300 pages.

QUICKIES:

To Mike Brown, one of our Zavala County Sentinel readers, who did not care for our comments about Houston writers cheerleading Houston U.: I wrote my opinion. You wrote yours. Both appeared in Dale Berker's paper. Isn't America great? . . . Ironic. Few Southwest Conference schools--or probably none--will you find without a hairy story to tell about past fan behavior at athletic contests at Aggieland. But now the Aggies are well-behaved, and those other cats are restless. Now comes Ag Basketball Coach Shelby Metcalf to complain about animal-like crowd behavior which did not exacty help his SWC leading Cadets as they lost a double overtime at Arkansas.

Remembered Quote: "Happiness is defeating Texas," chortled now deposed Arkansas Basket bal l Coach Lanny Van Eman. Apparently he did not long enjoy that levity, for he was at Fayetteville only four years.

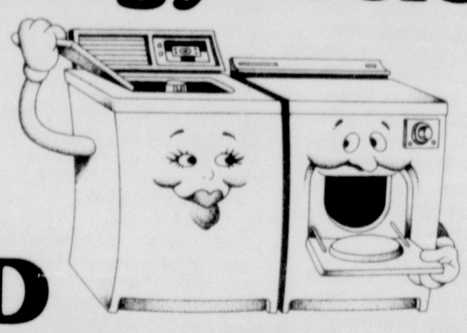
Reducing plan for energy users



Plan D

How to save electricity when using washers and dryers

1. Choose proper wash cycle. ("Hot" setting isn't necessary with most modern fabrics.)
2. Use long wash cycle only with full laundry load.
3. If washer has water level control, choose level to match load size. (Saves hot water and energy used to heat it.)
4. Clean dryer's lint filter after each load to help dryer efficiency and reduce drying time.
5. Don't overdry clothes. Set timer according to garment's fiber content.
6. Sort clothes for drying by weight and texture of fabric to avoid extra run-time for 2 or 3 slow-dry items.
7. Vent dryer to outside to prevent indoor moisture build-up. Follow manufacturer's operating instructions carefully.

Conserve electricity and you help conserve one or more of the fuels needed to produce it: natural gas, coal and oil. Conserve fuels and you help assure that there will be enough to meet essential needs for electricity in the future.

When you pass a TP&L office, warehouse, generating plant or other facility, you'll see that we've turned off all non-essential lighting. And, in as many other ways as possible, TP&L is reducing its own uses of electricity.

If you would like additional information on conserving electricity, call or see the Customer Service Representative in the TP&L Office.

TP&L Plans Construction Of Lignite-Fired Plants

Texas Power & Light Company will spend $251-000,000 for the construction of new facilities in 1975, J. F. Skelton, TP&L president, announced.

The construction budget is the largest in the Company's 63-year history, and expenditures will allow TP&L to keep pace with the growing electrical demands of customers in its 51-county service area.

During 1975, TP&L will continue construction of numerous power plants designed to reduce the company's reliance on natural gas as a boiler fuel.

Because of dwindling natural gas supplies, TP&L is now focusing on other fuel sources--lignite and nuclear --for future power production.

Last year, after many months of exhaustive safety and environmental studies, the Atomic Energy Commission issued a construction permit for the Comanche Peak Steam Electric Station, a nuclear plant ot be located near Glen Rose about 80 miles west of Dallas.

The plant will consist of two 1,150,000 kilowatt generating units and will be owned jointly by TP&L, Dallas Power & Light Company, and Texas Electric Service Company. The first unit is scheduled for operation in 1980, and the second in 1982. The companies also will build a 3,200-acre lake at the plant site. Lake water will be used for cooling purposes.

A nuclear plant produces electricity the same way a conventional plant does. The heat source is the only difference since nuclear fission produces the heat which turns water into steam. The steam spins the turbine, which in turn spins the generator, to produce electricity.

Scheduled to be placed in operation in the more immediate future are several lignite plants. TP&L has been acquiring lignite deposits in East Texas for the past 30 years. Texas lignite, a soft coal, is low in sulphur content and presents fewer environmental problems than other forms of coal.

Lignite-fueled plants now under construction include:

1. Monticello Steam Electric Station in Titus County. The first of two 575,000-kilowatt units was placed in limited service in 1974, and the second 575,000-kilowatt unit is scheduled for completion in 1976. A 750,000 kilowatt unit at Monticello will be placed in service in 1978. TP&L is scheduled to own 50 percent of the capacity at Monticello, and DP&L and TESCO will own the remainder.

2. Martin Lake, Rusk County, will be the largest generating facility ever constructed by the Company. Four 750,000 units will be built with completion scheduled prior to the peak season of each of the years 1977, 1979, and 1980. TP&L is scheduled to own 60 percent of the plant's capacity, with the remainder going to DP&L and TESCO.

3. Forest Grove, Henderson County, will have one 750,000 kilowatt unit in service prior to the peak season of 1981.

4. Twin Oak, Robertson County, will be constructed and owned jointly by TP&L and the Aluminum Company of America. The plant will consist of two 750,000-kilowatt generating units to be placed in service in 1981 and 1982.

All of the new lignite plants are being constructed adjacent to lignite depostis estimated to be sufficient for the service life of the units.

Also, a 775,000-kilowatt, gas/oil-fueled unit is nearing completion on Lake Granbury in Hood County, and will be placed in service prior to the 1975 peak season.

Butz Issues Statement On Food Stamp Program

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz issued the following statement of the Food Stamp Program, after President Ford announced that he will allow H. R. 1589 to become law without his signature: (The bill would, in effect, freeze Food Stamp Purchase Requirements at their January 1, 1975, level through the year 1975.)

"I fully share President Ford's concern for the negative effects of this bill. His statement documents them well.

"The promptness with which the President has made this decision is most helpful, particularly to our cooperating State and local administrators of the program. Local administrators are right now in the process of preparing "Authorization To Purchase" credentials for use by food stamp participants in the month of March--just two weeks away.

"Therefore, the Department's Food and Nutrition Service has immediately notified all State cooperating agencies of the President's action (allowing the bill to become law without his signature). The 30 Percent Purchase Requirement regulation which was announced January 17 (USDA Press Release 174-75) is rescinded, and the Table of Monthly Coupon Allotments and Purchase Requirements that was announced November 14 (effective January 1, 1975) will continue in effect for March and subsequent months. In turn, the States will notify the Counties, so that they may proceed with preparations for the March issuance of food stamps.

"I hope that the news media--with their speedy communications capabilities--will help us to spread this story widely, and quickly.

"Looking beyond this current confusion, I am pleased that Senators Dole and Curtis have prevailed on their colleagues to join in Senate Resolution 58 which directs a full review of the operation of the Food Stamp Program be made and reported to the Congress by June 30. We are proceeding promptly to initiate this study. We are hopeful that this comprehensive review will contribute to better understanding of the Program, and thus help the Congress and the Department to work together in achieving Program objectives."

Expansion Awards Await Growing Texas Industries

AUSTIN

Governor Dolph Briscoe has set an April 15 deadline for communities to submit nominations for the annual Governor's Industrial Expansion Awards for 1974.

Gov. Briscoe urged all Chambers of Commerce and other sponsoring bodies to submit their applications to the Texas Industrial Commission soon to comply with the cutoff date. He said any industry is qualified if it has shown an increase in employe and plant size and has made a significant economic impact on the local economy.

In the past, winners have come from all sizes of industries and communities--ranging from small plants with only a few employes to large metropolitan industries empolying thousands.

Gov. Briscoe said he would like to see a greater participation from smaller communities.

"Many of the smaller communities are reluctant to submit an industry because they feel they can't compete with larger corporations in the metropolitan areas," Briscoe said. "This is a misconception. What we are concerned with is the percentage of expansion, not total numbers."

The Governor and the Texas Industrial Commission will present awards to the five winners in special ceremonies in Austin in May. Special runners-up certificates will be sent to the communities where the Chambers of Commerce can arrange appropriate recognition to the honored industry.

Gov. Briscoe noted that this annual recognition is a very important part of industrial development.

"When you consider 80 percent of our growth comes from existing industries, it is easy to see the importance of recognizing and honoring them."

Winners will be announced April 22.

Moraw, Dillon Visit Legislators

Willie Moraw and Paul Dillon of Cameron, in Milam County, have just returned from Austin where they participated in Legislative Day activities sponsored by Texas Farmers Union.

The Milam County Farmers Union representatives visited their hometown legislators, as well as key urban members of the legislature, to better acquaint them with the problems faced by farmers and ranchers across the state.

The one-day "citizen lobbyists" emphasized issues in the Texas Farmers Union's Legislative Goals in their visits with members of the legislature. High on the list of priority issues is the creation of a State Public Utility Commission. Farmers and ranchers across the state have been experiencing rapidly increasing rates and marginal service which adds to their costs.

CARE Asks Funds For Hunger Crisis

Because of tne unprecedented world hunger crisis, CARE today launched an emergency, nationwide "empty plate" campaign, asking for pledges from concerned Americans to skip or reduce one meal a week for the rest of the year and send food dollars saved to the aid agency.

Funds raised will be used for crash expansion of CARE's feeding and food-growing programs for starving families overseas. Visual symbol for the campaign is the picutre of an empty plate on which is printed the slogan, "I care."
